Johnson Says U.S. Security Definitely Tied To Far East

TOKYO, June 23—Defense Secretary Louis Johnson ended his inspection tour of the Orient tonight with a declaration that the security of the United States "is tied in with the way America maintains its positions in the Far East."

America's top defense official voiced this view at Tokyo's Haneda Airport just before he and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, boarded a plane to fly back to Washington via Anchorage, Alaska.

Johnson indicated strongly that speculation over an early

Allied-Japanese peace treaty and the withdrawal of American occupation forces from Japan is premature. He made it clear that he favors the retention of American bases in Japan, at least until the Cold War is settled.

The defense secretary said: "The United States must do—and I am sure will do—all things in the Far East that are necessary for the security of America and the peace of the world."

JOHNSON'S AIRPORT fare-well comments followed a prepared statement the secretary issued earlier this evening in which he also indicated that the peace treaty talk is premature. He made it clear that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's position on the question had been misinterpreted.

"We find," said Johnson's statement, "that there have been misunderstandings, that statements quoted inaccurately or out of context have been misinterpreted and that other statements have been rendered invalid because of major changes in the situation in the Far East."

"Gen. Bradley and I went to the Far East to secure facts upon which our policy toward Japan should be based if we are most effectively to protect the security of the United States."

"Until the facts we have determined have been evaluated by the secretaries of the armed forces and the Joint Chiefs of Staff and our conclusions have been reported to the Commander-in-Chief (President Truman), no statement will be issued by the Department of Defense."

MacArthur, who saw Johnson and Bradley off at the airport, said "it was a delightful visit and most satisfactory."

Johnson told reporters he hopes the plane taking him and Bradley back from Japan will set a new Tokyo-to-Washington flight record of 23 hours. The cabinet officer proudly announced he had taken 300 pictures while in Japan.

St. Louis Bookie Has $500,000 Daily Business

WASHINGTON, June 23—The Post office inspector told Senate crime探者 today that the C. J. Rich and Co. of St. Louis is doing a $500,000 daily business in horse races and baseball bets received through the mails.

But the chief Post office inspector, Clifton C. Garner, said a federal judge has ruled that the operations does not violate the lottery laws because "skill" in picking winners is involved.

The Senate bill, like the House measure, continues the registration of men 18 through 25. Passage of the upper chamber's bill came after a 45 to 27 defeat of the second Russell amendment to provide for racial segregation in the armed services.

The crime committee, headed by Sen. Kefauver, (D) Tenn., already has seized records of the C. J. Rich firm as result of alleged activities conducted over Western Union telephone wires.

Garner said representatives of the company were indicted last year on charges of violating the lottery laws, but a federal district judge threw the case out of court on the "skill" issue.

He said the judge recognized that the betting racket was getting worse, but ruled that Congress would have to "broaden the law" before an indictment would stick.

Garner said the firm was handling $500,000 daily in bets on this phase alone. Asked by Kefauver if that operation is still going on today, the postal inspector replied:

"I am sure they have not changed their methods of operation."

Average Yankee Spends $57 In '50 On Drinks

WASHINGTON, June 23—Americans spent an average $57 last year on whisky, beer and wines, but total consumption hit a new postwar low.

The Commerce Department reported today that $8.5 billion were spent on the three alcoholic beverages in 1949 for the lowest outlay since 1944.

Whisky and other hard liquors comprising the distilled spirits group suffered the largest drop, about six percent below the 1948 figure of $8.8 billion.

Industry men said the decrease was not surprising. They attributed the sales decline to high federal and state taxes averaging $10.61 a proof gallon. The high cost of whisky, they added, is also stimulating moonshining which is now greater than prewar.

For the second straight year, beer led the alcoholic drinking field. Commerce estimated beer spending amounted to $4.43 billion, about 53 percent of the total spent on the beverages.

Wine spending was figured at $46 million.

All told, the total drop in alcoholic spending amounted to three percent.

House Armed Services Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., said he would let Selective Service die before he agrees to the Senate bill. He made his statement before the Senate amended its bill to give Congress as well as the President the authority to push the button on inductions.

However, Vinson turned down a previous proposal by Defense Secretary Johnson along the very same lines as passed by the Senate. Vinson will head the House conferees.

The Senate shouting to passage late yesterday a three-year extension of Selective Service. However, the compromise measure requires either Congress or the President to declare a state of emergency before men 19 through 25 could be drafted.

Hague Probed

JERSEY CITY, June 23—Law enforcement officials today began a study of a detailed report that the Boss Frank Hague machine collected $361,649 in political contributions from 3,000 Jersey City employees in 1948 and 1949.

The 15-day stop-gap extension was rushed through both houses as an emergency measure. Democratic leaders said it will prevent the washing out of the 11 million registrations of the last two years, which would happen if the draft act is permitted to expire.

Garner said the firm was handling $500,000 daily in bets on this phase alone. Asked by Kefauver if that operation is still going on today, the postal inspector replied:

"I am sure they have not changed their methods of operation."

9 Of 11 Crewmen Safe After B-29 Falls Into Sea

GUAM, June 23—A U. S. Air force B-29 crashed into the Western Pacific 140 miles southeast of Guam early today and nine of its eleven crewmen were sighted this afternoon, drifting in lifeboats or floating with the aid of life-jackets.

Rescue vessels were rushing to the scene to pick up the survivors of the crash which apparently cost at least two lives.

The Superfort bomber, attached to the 28th Bomb Squadron of the 19th Bombardment Wing, was flying on a mission from its base at Guam's Andersen Field to Okinawa when the big plane was "ditched" in the ocean at about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Cause of the crash was not yet known.

An air and surface hunt for the missing aircraft was launched and Lt. Cmdr. Edward P. Drake, piloting a Navy R5D plane, spotted six of the survivors in two lifeboats lashed together.

Shortly afterward another search plane located three more

Senate Panel Told Russian Running Communists Smuggling Ring In Cuba

WASHINGTON, June 23—Senate testimony disclosed today that a Russian "is the kingpin" of the Cuban smuggling racket which immigration officials believe is pouring Communists into the U. S. through Florida.

Miami immigration officials identified this man to a Senate subcommittee recently only as "Simonovich" who, they said, operates out of Havana. They said Simonovich was once a member of the immigration service itself.

They added: "From all the information which we receive, Simonovich is the center or kingpin of the smuggling operation out of Havana."

As a result of this and other testimony on Capitol Hill that the Communists are using Cuba as "an easy stepping stone" into the U. S., the State Department has unofficially informed the Cuban government that it may soon require passports and visas for Cuban nationals entering the U. S.

He said that U. S. diplomatic officials in Havana have been alerted for the probable changeover in order to plug this part of the screening loophole.

Walter A. Sahli, acting director of immigration for the Miami area, and four of his aides testified at the secret Miami hearing.

They said that Simonovich has a "working arrangement" with Cuban army officials and immigration officials to give them a "cut" of his profits.

They said he is a legal resident of Cuba, though a Russian, and is married to a Cuban woman. The testimony added:

"He has been behind every smuggling effort apprehended by the border patrol in this area."

Heretofore, the agent said, Simonovich has used planes to fly aliens into the U. S., but added that they now have information that he plans to "export" his operations by using fishing boats to land them in lonely spots in the Ten Thousand Islands group near Everglades City, Fla. That area is close to Tampa.

Male Wheat Hormone Find May Revise Human Diets

CHICAGO, June 23—Discovery of and isolation of male and female sex hormones in wheat—a discovery that eventually may lead to a drastic revision of diets and revolutionize treatment for many ailments—was reported today.

Isolation of the hormones in fresh wheat germ oil was accomplished by Dr. Ezra Levin, biochemist and director of the Viobin Corp. of Monticello, Ill.

Levin, who was aided in his research by University of Illinois scientists, made the formal announcement of his findings at the annual meeting of the Association for the Study of Internal Secretions—an organization of gland specialists—in San Francisco.

He stated that wheat, known for the last 40 centuries as a staff of life, now takes on great value as a medicinal aid.

"Is food the source of sex hormones in man and animals? What foods other than wheat contain these hormonal substances? Is there a lack of these substances in our modern diet? It is important to emphasize that we have no answers to these questions."

Best Cites Fact: Quality Is Low

The national organization of wheat millers has turned thumbs down on Ohio wheat.

The situation is an alarming one for Pickaway County farmers, according to County Extension Agent Larry Best.

He said Friday on the eve of the 1950 wheat harvest that the reason given for the advice offered by the national organization was that "too much inferior quality wheat" was marketed in Ohio last year.

He said the facts have been reported by a committee appointed to study the problem by Dean L. L. Rummell of Ohio State university college of agriculture.

In fact, so little wheat graded No. 2 or better in 1949 that Ohio grain dealers had great difficulty in meeting requirements for export, according to committee members Director C. M. Ferguson, and Sam Huber of the Agricultural Extension Service, C. A. Lamb and Bill Johnson of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Low grade and poor quality wheat has been very common in the Ohio crop the past two or three years," the committee states.

Investigators explain that so-called "sick wheat" develops sometimes when wheat with moderate to high moisture content has been stored for some time. The germ dies and becomes discolored. Oil in the germ becomes rancid. Quality of protein deteriorates, resulting in lower quality of baked goods.

THE COMMITTEE says the cause of sick wheat is not known. What is known is that sick wheat only develops when grain goes into storage at a relatively high moisture content.

"High moisture is the greatest single hazard to grain in the bin," the committee states. Moisture increases the likelihood of insect trouble, damage from mould, and heating and bin-burning."

Dry wheat is safe. Combining adds moisture to wheat.

"Combine harvesting has led to a much greater proportion of our crop going into the bin at a dangerously high moisture content," the report goes on. "It has also resulted in losses from lower weight per bushel and weathered appearance."

Farmers and elevator men are on the spot to improve the quality of wheat.

The committee points out that the farmer can make every effort to combine as soon as the wheat is ready—but not before.

If grain is stored on the farm—good bins must be provided along with some means of ventilating or turning, and fumigating.

The elevator man can bin carefully, keeping doubtful or damp wheat apart. Drying equipment is a great help.

Lancaster Jails 4 Bootleggers

LANCASTER, June 23—Four Fairfield County men drew fines of $50 each yesterday when hauled into mayor's court on the first bootlegging charge here in 20 years.

The four pleaded guilty to possessing bootleg whisky and were held in jail until payment of the fines was forthcoming.

The four were Leo C. Lanning, 24, of New Straitsville; John W. Eyman, 18, of Pleasantville; Roy W. Lanning, 34, of Lancaster, and James A. Witham, 24, of Glouster.

They were picked up on the complaint of a customer who told police the bootleggers drank half the whisky they already had sold him.

15-Day Draft Extension Bill Given To President

WASHINGTON, June 23—The signature of President Truman on a 15-day stop-gap extension resolution is the only means of keeping the draft act from lapsing at midnight tonight.

The House, by recessing, blocked any possibility of Congress getting an overall draft bill on the books before tonight's deadline.

The Senate shouted to passage late yesterday a three-year extension of Selective Service. However, the compromise measure requires either Congress or the President to declare a state of emergency before men 19 through 25 could be drafted.

The major bill faces trouble in a Senate-House conference, where differences in versions passed by the two chambers must be ironed out. Once the conferees complete their work, their agreement must be approved by both chambers.

Senate Assistant Democratic Leader Myers, Penna., said he was hopeful conferees could complete their work today. But even if they do, the House will not be in session before Monday to act on the agreement.

The House passed a two-year bill and provided that while men 18 through 25 would have to register, there could be no inductions unless Congress "pulls the trigger" by passing another bill.

HOUSE ARMED Services Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., said he would let Selective Service die before he agrees to the Senate bill. He made his statement before the Senate amended its bill to give Congress as well as the President the authority to push the button on inductions.

However, Vinson turned down flatly a previous proposal by Defense Secretary Johnson along the very same lines as passed by the Senate. Vinson will head the House conferees.

As a result of this and other testimony on Capitol Hill that the Communists are using Cuba as "an easy stepping stone" into the U. S., the State Department has unofficially informed the Cuban government that it may soon require passports and visas for Cuban nationals entering the U. S.

Under an existing reciprocal agreement, Cubans can visit this country for 29 days without a visa.

THE TESTIMONY showed that Communists and subversives use this method by claiming they are Cuban nationals to get into the U. S. or they contact smugglers who charge between $750 and $1,500 each to slip them in.

A high State Department source revealed today that only a congressional appropriation in the State Department bill now pending in the Senate stands in the way of instituting the visa system.

'Don't Buy' Order Sent Out In East

(Continued from Page One) the situation are described in the committee report now on its way to county extension offices for distribution to farmers.

Best explained it this way:

"Low grade and poor quality wheat has been very common in the Ohio crop the last two or three years. So called 'sick wheat' develops sometimes when wheat with moderate to high moisture content has been stored for some time."

"The germ becomes rancid, and the quality of protein deteriorates, resulting in lower quality of baked goods."

THE COUNTY agent said that the cause of sick wheat is not known, the condition developing only at relatively high moisture content. Dry wheat is safe.

"High moisture," Best went on, is the greatest single hazard to grain in the bin. It increases the likelihood of infestation with insects, damage from mould growth resulting in musty or sour grain and excessive heating and bin burning.

"If the situation is to be improved, both farmer and elevator man must help. The farmer can make every effort to combine as soon as the wheat is ready, but not before. If stored on the farm, good bins must be provided and some means of ventilating or turning, and fumigating. The elevator man can bin carefully, keeping doubtful or damp wheat segregated. Drying equipment is being installed in many elevators, and it is a great help."

Best said that in combining the shelled grain picks up moisture from broken green material passing through the machine. Any adjustment to reduce the breaking up of such material would help, he added.

He suggested:

1. "Increase the cylinder-cone clearance to  $\frac{1}{4}$  inches-one inch. This will decrease the moisture content of the combined grain. Harvesting losses will also be decreased. Don't be alarmed if some grain is unthreshed."

2. "Raise the cutter bar to cut above as much green material as possible. The increased cutter bar loss will be more than offset by the saving of grain in separation and cleaning process."

3. "Cut around weed patches and harvest them last. Harvesting losses will be decreased and the moisture will not be added to the entire crop."

4. "On machines with blast deflectors in the fan housing, direct the air blast toward the forward end of the machine."

5. "Check the machine r.p.m. to be certain all parts are running the correct speed."

6. "Reduce the rate of travel when operating in weedy grain."

Saltcreek 4-H Grabs Honors At Hereford Show

Saltcreek Valley Livestock 4-H Club excelled during Thursday's Hereford Field Day on Clyde Cook's Pleasant View farm near Fox.

Approximately 150 persons looked on as the club took first prize in the cattle judging contest.

Members of the championship livestock club team were Carl Reichelderfer, Don Maxson and Raymond Maxson.

Second to Saltcreek in the contest was the Darby Fine and Dandy Club, consisting of John Riddle, Jim Grubill and Tom Shannon, while Westfall Livestock Club consisting of John Stevenson, Elizabeth Stevenson and Glen Yapple ranked third.

Other survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Ferd Martin of Circleville, Mrs. Joseph Kost of Columbus, Mrs. Paul Clemson of Thornville and Mrs. Maud Burge of West Palm Beach, Fla.; three brothers, Thurman C., Ralph C. and John C. Coleman, all of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday in the Funeral Home in Kingston with the Rev. Charles Elkjer officiating.

Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery in Adelphi.

Friends may call in the funeral home after Saturday noon.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. KARL L. MILLER
Mrs. Bernice Coleman Miller, 50, died at 3 a. m. Friday following an emergency appendectomy at 3 p. m. Thursday in Chillicothe hospital.

She had served the Kingston American Legion auxiliary as its first president. She was a member of Ne Plus Ultra Sunday School class of Kingston Methodist church.

Born April 26, 1900, in Adelphi, she was the daughter of Sam R. and Caroline Coleman.

Her husband, Karl L. Miller, died three years ago.

Two children survive, Paul L. Miller and Mrs. Anna Lou Immler, both of Kingston. Also surviving are two grandchildren.

Other survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Ferd Martin of Circleville, Mrs. Joseph Kost of Columbus, Mrs. Paul Clemson of Thornville and Mrs. Maud Burge of West Palm Beach, Fla.; three brothers, Thurman C., Ralph C. and John C. Coleman, all of Columbus.

Booster club members are urged to attend the annual picnic and election of officers starting at 12:30 p. m. Sunday in Ted Lewis Park.

The boys and girls are to provide their own transportation for the sessions. Youngsters from Licking, Fairfield and Ross Counties also will attend the schools.

Stock Judging School At OSU Eyed By Locals

Pickaway County 4-H Clubbers are expected to attend a two-day livestock judging school beginning Monday in Ohio State university.

Merle Thomas, associate Pickaway County extension agent, said the local youngsters will receive training in dairy cattle judging during the Monday session, while a generalized livestock judging school will be held Tuesday.

The schools are to be held in Plumb Hall on the campus, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and lasting through 3 p. m. each day.

These schools will give the boys and girls a better understanding of what is expected of them during our fair," Thomas said, "as well as developing them for club judging competition."

The boys and girls are to provide their own transportation for the sessions. Youngsters from Licking, Fairfield and Ross Counties also will attend the schools.

Police Radio Replacement Is Considered

Consideration is being given to purchase of a new Circleville police radio for state service.

Safety Director C. O. Leist said the present radio, purchased 14 years ago, is "worn out."

"And that's not surprising," he added, "considering the thing has been used constantly, 24 hours a day, since it was bought."

He said purchase of a new radio is conditional upon the price "not being out of line."

In a recent test, he said the radio was unable to pick up calls from the center of Columbus, although a weak signal was picked up from near the south corporation line of the state capital.

Leist explained that the radio is used for state calls, is not the one used by police to contact local cruisers.

Cafe Owner's Hearing Delayed

Hearing against Vora Butler, Circleville restaurant owner, was postponed Thursday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

Butler is accused of violating a Circleville blue law by having his establishment open until 12:15 a. m. last Sunday. The accusation was filed by Officer Mack Wise.

Mayor Miller said the hearing was postponed when City Solicitor George Gerhardt was unable to attend the session.

2 Men Arrested

In Numbers Game

Two Columbus men were arrested here Thursday evening for investigation in connection with the numbers racket.

Officer Mack Wise said he and Officer Harold Green discovered the men near a southend saloon at about 8 p. m. Thursday. He stated that one of the men attempted to destroy the evidence in a rest room in the cafe.

Preliminary hearing for the pair, one 32 and the other 29-years-old, is expected to be held late Friday.

It is hard to turn these farmers away because the wheat is high in moisture content, contains insects or is otherwise in poor condition.

The farmer is not going to extra trouble and care for nothing. Some elevators have greatly improved their local situation by adopting definite standards in wheat before they will take it, and explaining to the farmer why they cannot take his particular lot.

"It takes courage, but if the farmer has trouble disposing of his grain one year, he will be more careful harvesting and storing it the next."

'Don't Buy' Order Sent Out In East

(Continued from Page One) the situation are described in the committee report now on its way to county extension offices for distribution to farmers.

Best explained it this way:

"Low grade and poor quality wheat has been very common in the Ohio crop the last two or three years. So called 'sick wheat' develops sometimes when wheat with moderate to high moisture content has been stored for some time."

"The germ becomes rancid, and the quality of protein deteriorates, resulting in lower quality of baked goods."

THE COUNTY agent said that the cause of sick wheat is not known, the condition developing only at relatively high moisture content. Dry wheat is safe.

"High moisture," Best went on, is the greatest single hazard to grain in the bin. It increases the likelihood of infestation with insects, damage from mould growth resulting in musty or sour grain and excessive heating and bin burning.

"If the situation is to be improved, both farmer and elevator man must help. The farmer can make every effort to combine as soon as the wheat is ready, but not before. If stored on the farm, good bins must be provided and some means of ventilating or turning, and fumigating. The elevator man can bin carefully, keeping doubtful or damp wheat segregated. Drying equipment is being installed in many elevators, and it is a great help."

Best said that in combining the shelled grain picks up moisture from broken green material passing through the machine. Any adjustment to reduce the breaking up of such material would help, he added.

He suggested:

1. "Increase the cylinder-cone clearance to  $\frac{1}{4}$  inches-one inch. This will decrease the moisture content of the combined grain. Harvesting losses will also be decreased. Don't be alarmed if some grain is un-threshed."

2. "Raise the cutter bar to cut above as much green material as possible. The increased cutter bar loss will be more than offset by the saving of grain in separation and cleaning process."

3. "Cut around weed patches and harvest them last. Harvesting losses will be decreased and the moisture will not be added to the entire crop."

4. "On machines with blast deflectors in the fan housing, direct the air blast toward the forward end of the machine."

5. "Check the machine r.p.m. to be certain all parts are running the correct speed."

6. "Reduce the rate of travel when operating in weedy grain."

Saltcreek 4-H Grabs Honors At Hereford Show

Saltcreek Valley Livestock 4-H Club excelled during Thursday's Hereford Field Day on Clyde Cook's Pleasant View farm near Fox.

She had served the Kingston American Legion auxiliary as its first president. She was a member of Ne Plus Ultra Sunday School class of Kingston Methodist church.

Born April 26, 1900, in Adelphi, she was the daughter of Sam R. and Caroline Coleman.

Her husband, Karl L. Miller, died three years ago.

Two children survive, Paul L. Miller and Mrs. Anna Lou Immell, both of Kingston. Also surviving are two grandchildren.

Other survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Ferd Martin of Circleville, Mrs. Joseph Kost of Columbus, Mrs. Paul Clemens of Thornville and Mrs. Maud Burgar of West Palm Beach, Fla.; three brothers, Thurman C., Ralph C. and John C. Coleman, all of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday in Hill Funeral Home in Kingston with the Rev. Charles Elquier officiating.

Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery in Adelphi.

Friends may call in the funeral home after Saturday noon.

ALBIN CRABB

Albin Crabb, 93, retired farmer and one of New Holland's oldest citizens, died in his residence at 4 a. m. Friday. He had been in failing health the last few years but remained active until six months ago.

Born Nov. 25, 1856, he was the son of James and Ruth Brown Crabb. He moved to New Holland from Frankfort when he was six years old and has lived in the New Holland vicinity ever since.

He married Rose Corkwell 64 years ago. She preceded him in death seven years ago.

He was survived by four daughters, Miss Ruth Crabb of New Holland, Mrs. Leah Garrison, Miss Lois Crabb, and Mrs. Gail Anderson of Clarksville; three sons, Ralph and Kenneth Crabb of New Holland and Carl Crabb of Frankfort.

He was a member of New Holland Methodist church and New Holland Masonic lodge.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the residence with the Rev. W. A. Ervin officiating.

Burial will be in New Holland cemetery under the direction of Kirkpatrick and Sons Funeral Home of New Holland.

The young people left at about 9 a. m. in private autos, and the pool and skating rink were opened especially for them.

A picnic was to have been held at noon and the group was to have returned at about 1 p. m.

Final phase of the Lutheran vacation Bible school will be held during regular worship service at 10:15 a. m. Sunday.

He said that details of construction for using forced air may be found in U.S.D.A. Farmers' Bulletin 2009, available in his office.

The country elevator operator often finds himself in a difficult position," Best pointed out. "He often wants to take wheat from growers who owe him money for feed or fertilizer, or from men whose business he wants to keep.

Stock Judging School At OSU Eyed By Locals

Pickaway County 4-H Clubbers are expected to attend a two-day livestock judging school beginning Monday in Ohio State university.

Merle Thomas, associate Pickaway County extension agent, said the local youngsters will receive training in dairy cattle judging during the Monday session, while a generalized livestock judging school will be held Tuesday.

The schools are to be held in Plumb Hall on the campus, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and lasting through 3 p. m. each day.

"These schools will give the boys and girls a better understanding of what is expected of them during our fair," Thomas said, "as well as developing them for club judging competition."

The boys and girls are to provide their own transportation for the sessions. Youngsters from Licking, Fairfield and Ross Counties also will attend the schools.

Booster club members are urged to attend the annual picnic and election of officers starting at 12:30 p. m. Sunday in Ted Lewis Park.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Ralph Smith and children, Ralph Jr. and Margaret of Philadelphia, are guests of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Smith and son, Earl A. Smith, of East Main street.

Mrs. Ray Beery, surgical patient in Berger hospital is reported in good condition after Tuesday surgery.

Four Columbus children, two boys and two girls, were held in Circleville Friday after having run away from home.

The quartet was picked up by Circleville police after a passing motorist reported he had brought the youngsters to a spot near town.

Police reported the youngsters ranged from 13 to 16 years old.

Worcester, Mass., had the first arena built especially for boxing. It was built in January, 1824.

King, who has worked his way through two life sentences, defiantly pleaded guilty yesterday to 14 counts of forgery and two counts of shooting to wound. He remarked to Judge John R. King:

"I can pass a bum check faster than you can cash your pay check."

As he stepped before the man who is almost his namesake—but no relation—Defendant King said casually:

JONAH LEARNS GOD'S PURPOSE

PROPHET SENT TO WARN WICKED NINEVEH

Scripture—Jonah

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL
WE HEAR and read much about crime and wickedness in the great cities of the world today. Rackets of all kinds, thievery, murder, all sorts of evil, exist in our own country. Nevertheless, very much good work is also being done, and there are many more good, law-abiding citizens in every city than there are robbers, racketeers and murderers.

We cannot think of any of our cities as being so wicked that they should be totally destroyed. So must the Lord have felt about the city of Nineveh, which was noted both because of the many wars it had waged, and for the cruelty which was practised by its citizens.

So the Lord called upon Jonah, "the son of Amitt," telling him to go to Nineveh and warn its inhabitants that if they did not cease their evil ways, He would utterly destroy it.

Nineveh was a Gentile city, and the Jewish people hated the Assyrians and feared them, and the Prophet Jonah evidently could not understand why he, a loyal Jew, should be asked to go to warn the enemies of his people of danger.

Instead of obeying the Lord's command, therefore, Jonah went to Joppa where he found a ship going to Tarsus, which is understood to have been the city of Tarassus, in southern Spain, near Gibraltar; paid his passage and boarded the ship. He must have thought he was safe and that the Lord would not be able to find him in that distant place.

However, he did not succeed. A terrible storm arose that so tossed the ship about that all aboard feared they were going to be lost in a wreck. The sailors threw the cargo overboard to lighten the ship, hoping it could ride out the storm, but it was no use. Then the shipmaster went below, and found Jonah peacefully sleeping, and the shipmaster said "What means thou, O sleeper? arise, call upon thy God, if it be so thy God will think upon us, that we perish not."

The seamen, meanwhile, decided to cast lots to try to find the person who had called this terror upon them. The lot fell on Jonah. They asked him then what he had done to bring the storm upon them, and he told them, suggesting that they cast him overboard to see if the storm would still.

The sailors did not want to do it, and tried hard to row the ship to land, but it was no use, so, praying that God would forgive them if they were taking the life of an innocent man, they threw him into the sea, which quieted at once.

Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

Jonah prayed unceasingly to the Lord to save him, and on the third day the great fish vomited him onto the beach. Jonah's prayer is a beautiful one, and should be read aloud. Exhausted by his trial, Jonah knew that he could not longer ignore the Lord's command, so he made the long, hard journey to this Gentile city and cried aloud: "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be overthrown!"

Probably Jonah had no idea that the people of Nineveh would take him seriously, but they did. They proclaimed a fast, and all put on sackcloth, "from the greatest of them even to the least of them."

The king heard of the warning, and he took off his royal robes and wore sackcloth and sat in ashes. He issued a decree that everyone should fast and wear sackcloth, even the beasts, and all the people should pray to God unceasingly.

Seeing that the people of Nineveh repented of their wickedness and tried to make amends, the Lord relented and spared the city.

This did not please Jonah, however. In fact, he was very angry with the Lord, and told Him that that was what he had feared all along, that the Lord was too good and kind-hearted to destroy the city if the inhabitants showed signs of repenting. So angry was the prophet that he wanted to die.

We haven't room here for the argument the Lord and Jonah had—the Lord striving to show His prophet that He was God also of the Gentiles, not only of the Jews, and must show the same goodness and forgiving spirit to them as He did to the Jewish race.

Federal Aid Promised For Flooded Area

CROOKSVILLE, June 23—The Crooksville area, hard-hit by last week's flash flood, has a promise of immediate disaster aid by the federal government.

New Lexington Attorney Mell Underwood Jr., a candidate for congressman, reported that W. E. Willitt of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. said the Crooksville sector had been declared a disaster area.

The RFC promised to move in as soon as possible and render financial assistance as provided for by the U. S. code.

The proclaimed disaster area takes in Crooksville, Roseville and Trapic. One person was killed and over $2 million damage was caused when the flash flood swept the section last Friday night.

Underwood, son of Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood of Columbus, wired President Truman for assistance for the flood area Wednesday on the part of stricken residents.

U.S. A-Scientist Urges
Yankees Share New Arms

PARIS, June 20—Dr. Vannevar Bush, American atom scientist, has urged that the United States make available to its Western European allies new atomic age weapons to defend themselves against attack.

The wartime director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development declared that America's blueprint for new secret anti-tank weapons should be supplied to nations participating in the United States military aid program to enable them to begin mass production.

Dr. Bush recently revealed in a Paris speech the existence of new anti-tank weapons which he described as a combination product of the bazooka and recoilless gun.

The new weapon, hailed by Dr. Bush as "the most encouraging chapter since the war" will, he said, enable Europe to defend itself with relatively small armies against possible mass attack.

In an interview at the Hotel Bristol in Paris before leaving with Mrs. Bush for an automobile tour of France and Italy, the prominent scientist said:

"France, and I hope Belgium and Holland and other nations in the program, should build their own weapons under arrangements by which we would make the plans available to them."

DR. BUSH SAID that the transfer of American blueprints would "not necessarily" involve the stationing of American units and technicians in the European countries to supervise the use of the new weapon.

He urged on the other hand "a greater free exchange of scientific information between the United States and its European friends."

He predicted that the revolutionary anti-tank weapon would help make Western Europe invulnerable to attack "within four or five years" by enabling a small group of well-trained troops equipped with this weapon to withstand "breakthrough and blitzkrieg" tactics by large armies attempting to overrun Western Europe.

Dr. Bush refused to estimate the size of the armies which Western Europe might need in view of the new development but indicated that it might not be necessary to expand to any degree the present limited forces in Western Europe.

The scientist pointed out that great problems still exist in creating defenses against modern submarines, but added:

"There is no problem of this sort which cannot be solved if we attack it rigorously. An enormous amount of work already has been done."

Dr. Bush stressed that the new anti-tank weapon places a new emphasis on defense in warfare.

He pointed out that in the last war the army with the greatest concentration of tanks possessed the offensive power to overwhelm an adversary. But, he added, the new anti-tank weapon developed by the United States has rendered the tank obsolete as an effective instrument of offense.

THE GOVERNORS, who listened attentively to an off the cuff dissertation on foreign policy by the President, individually pledged him their support.

Mr. Truman gave the governors his version of the loyalty situation.

He said that the United States had fought the war on the assumption that Russia was our ally.

He said that when it became apparent that the Russians were no longer our allies, it became necessary to put in the process of "screening" government employees in such important places as the State and Defense Departments.

Before that, the President continued, the government proceeded on the assumption that the Russians were our ally instead of our enemy.

He said that when Russia's intention towards the rest of the world became known after the end of the war, his own administration proposed and carried out the setting up of loyalty boards to root out any persons who were playing Russia's game.

1. The need of the "cooperation of all...to secure the peace" in a world threatened by Communist aggression.

2. The necessity of keeping our attention from being "diverted by any shows in working for peace." The governors interpreted this as a slap at the charges by Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., of Communist infestation of the State Department.

3. Domestic politics. The President urged the Democratic governors to fight for the election of "real Democrats" to the House and Senate.

NEW YORK, June 23—George Cowel observed gloomily today that when some people dream of falling they wake up in bed.

But not he—he has to do it with realism.

The 54-year-old Cowel fell asleep yesterday on a pier next to the concrete abutment of the Manhattan bridge over the East River.

Other idlers saw Cowel twitch and then roll to the edge of the pier. Before anyone could move, Cowel had dropped from sight.

The idlers waited for the splash, but none was heard. Then howls arose from pier side. Cowel had fallen two feet and became jammed into an eight-inch space between the dock and the abutment.

Cowel shouted, "call the cops, I'm stuck."

But at the word "cops" the idlers melted from sight. And it wasn't until four hours later that one of them telephoned the police and related—anonimously—what had happened.

Police had to rip up some of the planking to free Cowel who was hospitalized with bruises and shock.

WASHINGTON, June 23—Democratic governors went back to their home states today with a lesson in foreign policy read to them by President Truman himself.

The chief executive told 18 Democratic state executives who sat down to lunch with him yesterday that unity and cooperation at home are essentials to the preservation of world peace.

Mr. Truman, in a frank off-the-record discussion with the governors, from which newsmen were barred, hit upon these subjects:

1. The need of the "cooperation of all . . . to secure the peace" in a world threatened by Communist aggression.

2. The necessity of keeping our attention from being "diverted by any shows in working for peace." The governors interpreted this as a slap at the charges by Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., of Communist infestation of the State Department.

THE SHOE AND THE FOOT

THE FOIBLES and foolishness of feminine fashions are a favorite target of masculine attack. But how many men wear shoes which are the same shape as their feet? The foot is shaped like a blunt wedge pointing to the rear, with a gently rounded front edge. The typical masculine shoe minimizes the rearward wedge and substitutes a long, slender point aimed forward. Shoe salesmen say men won't buy shoes with rounded toes, conforming to the rounded ends of their feet.

If this is not a foolish foible, what is it? Men claim that they dress to suit themselves, and yet only one in dozens is willing to deviate from custom by wearing shoes which follow the natural shape of their feet. The foot is shaped like a blunt wedge pointing to the rear, with a gently rounded front edge. The typical masculine shoe minimizes the rearward wedge and substitutes a long, slender point aimed forward. Shoe salesmen say men won't buy shoes with rounded toes, conforming to the rounded ends of their feet.

The record will show that McGranery, to whom this case came only as a matter of policy in 1945, felt that the OSS had not been sufficiently careful but that the FBI had avoided pitfalls. He authorized prosecution of all persons involved in the case.

Therefore, we must ask who cancelled out McGranery and President Truman? Who had the authority to cancel them out? So far as McGranery was concerned, at first Francis Biddle, and subsequently Tom Clark, could countermand his instructions. Did one of them?

In Lieut. Andrew Roth's case, the government entered a nolle prosequi. That let him out. The Navy never court-martialed him.

In the case of Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen, the Department of Justice suggested a fine of $500, which was imposed by the court, after a plea of nolo contendere was accepted by the court.

The cases against Kate Mitchell, Mark Gayn and John S. Service were dropped altogether.

In a discussion of this case on the floor of the House of Representatives, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Dondero. How did those documents get out of the files of the government and be found 257 miles away from Washington?

"Mr. Hobbs. They did not get out through any thievery or anything of that sort. They got out of there by reason of employees of the department, with 'gold

"Is there anybody there?" said the Traveler,
Knocking on the moonlit door . . ."

NEW YORK—You are alone in the city, a world you never made, and it is like a silent movie. In the street around you, people walk and talk and go through all the little mechanisms of living, but they are too close to you—the forest for the trees—and you do not see what they do not hear what they say.

It is into the stores and the homes that you look in your hunt for signs of life, into the thousand buildings of the city, behind the curtains, through the Venetian blinds, and you discover that it is a mute world, a world behind glass and curtain. A world without subtleties.

There—there in that second-floor apartment, where you see the warm light of an amber floor lamp. You stand on the sidewalk for a moment looking up, and you see the little group of fat and middle-aged men and women standing for a moment around a table, then sitting down.

Sunday evening. It could be bridge, but you see that the men have their jackets off and are in shirt sleeves and suspenders, so it probably is pinochle or even whist.

These are too old for the sharp and greedy chase of the poker table. They settle into their chairs and then sit there like figures in a tableau, as the game begins. You cannot see their hands arranging and playing the cards, so all you see that moves are the mouths. But there is no sound. You are a deaf man in the city tonight.

But no one descended to the Traveler;

No head from the leaf-fringed sill . . .

You pass on through the streets. There is a basement apartment, down three steps, and you can look into the living room, for the shades are only half drawn. There is a bookcase and a chair and you see feet padding around in slippers. But the feet make no sound, nor is there any noise from the radio, old and small and brown, with the little orange glow between the dials to let you know the electricity is on.

You move along, and a few apartment buildings down the street are darkened, opened windows on a first floor, a shade curtain swaying in the spring breeze. The edge of a crib can be seen through a window. The sleep of the innocent is being slept there; there will be no sound from within.

These Days

Curious questions arise in the Amerasia case which goes back to 1945. For instance, why did they rush so to get rid of the first grand jury which went into the case? Who is the "they" in the above sentence? Where are the minutes of that grand jury? So far as anybody is willing to say, those minutes are not available. Are they lost or have they been stolen? It would be interesting to know.

This grows increasingly clear as the evidence unfolds: President Truman authorized the arrests to be made and urged prosecution. Who then countermanded the President's order?

Last week, I wrote that Judge James P. McGranery, who was at the time the top man under the attorney general, felt that J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI had fumbled the ball. I am now convinced that I had misread the data, and that is not surprising because the way it comes up bit by bit, instead as part of a scientific study, it is possible to make a slip occasionally, no matter how careful one tries to be. But I am always ready to correct an error.

The record will show that McGranery, to whom this case came only as a matter of policy in 1945, felt that the OSS had not been sufficiently careful but that the FBI had avoided pitfalls. He authorized prosecution of all persons involved in the case.

Therefore, we must ask who cancelled out McGranery and President Truman? Who had the authority to cancel them out? So far as McGranery was concerned, at first Francis Biddle, and subsequently Tom Clark, could countermand his instructions. Did one of them?

Hitchcock proposed a $5,000 fine; Jaffe's lawyer suggested a fine of $2,500. That was the exact amount that Judge Proctor fined Jaffe.

In Lieut. Andrew Roth's case, the government entered a nolle prosequi. That let him out. The Navy never court-martialed him.

In the case of Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen, the Department of Justice suggested a fine of $500, which was imposed by the court, after a plea of nolo contendere was accepted by the court.

The cases against Kate Mitchell, Mark Gayn and John S. Service were dropped altogether.

In a discussion of this case on the floor of the House of Representatives, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Dondero. How did those documents get out of the files of the government and be found 257 miles away from Washington?

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Stoll lives outside of Tamerlane, mother town of the Old West. Colonel Carradine, once his benefactor, needs him to get out of "get out" by cloudy means. Cory Lund, son of Marco Stoll, and his companion, intervene. Warlike scenes on the range. Stoll and Ives talk of the Colonel's stubborn, futile resistance to progress, of the "new" farmers' invasion of the land, of the Colonel's beautiful unhappy daughter, Tana.

CHAPTER THREE

IVES LET the rancor run out of him, and he said, "I'm glad you were at that window today, Stoll."

Stoll spread his fat hands. "I play no sides. This will be a sod-buster town in the long run. As it grows, I'll grow with it. When Cory Lund has cooled off, he'll see that I did him a favor, too." He smiled. "Are you going to set up practice here, Doc?"

Ives said, "I'm going to Hammer and find out what it is Tana thinks I can do. Then I'm going to do it. You were right about the bitter bread, Stoll; but Colonel Carradine was as much of a father as I ever had. I've learned a few things since I took to doctoring. One of them is that all the ills aren't of the flesh."

Stoll shook his head. "You pulled yourself up out of here by the roots. You've made a new life for yourself, and you've told me that you like it. Cory Lund's advice wasn't bad, even though it was given in belligerency. He hates Colonel Carradine and I suppose he's heard that you're a sort of foster son of Carradine's. Let me give you the same advice. Take that stage out tonight. You can't live the colonel's life for him."

Ives also shook his head. "This is something I can't turn my back on. I'm heading for Hammer as soon as I can rent a buggy. Tana didn't come to meet me. I don't think she wanted the colonel to know she'd sent for me."

Stoll sighed. "If you must go, you're welcome to my buggy. I keep it in the livery yard. You can have one of the Hammer hands fetch it back. Carradine has never allowed me to set foot on Hammer, but he shouldn't object to my horse."

Ives said, "Thanks," and came to his feet.

Stoll crossed to the chessboard.

"If you must stay, it will be nice having you here. There's been no doctor since old Doc Ellenberg died." He glanced at the board.

"Do you favor this game?"

Ives grinned. "I understand it's for brainy people."

Stoll sighed again. "I've played alone for a long time."

"I'll send the buggy back soon," Ives said and walked toward the door. Stoll still stood by the table, his fingers caressing one of the chessmen. It was a pawn; Stoll raised his hand to wave a farewell to Ives, and his fingernail flicked the pawn and it fell, spilling half a dozen others.

Stoll's buggy was the square box type, direct offspring of the storied one-horse shay, and Ives owned one like it in Oregon, using it where there were roads, and when the snow wasn't piled too high. His carpetbag and instrument case stowed beneath the seat, he toiled the buggy out of the wagon yard and along the street, Marco Stoll giving him a lift of his hand from the window as Ives passed below. At the town's edge, penned cattle bawled ceaselessly; a dog gave barking, furious escort to Ives this far and no farther; and the town fell behind, and Ives took the road north to Hammer and was alone with the prairie and the clatter of wheels and the din of the horse's hoofs.

The land wore a stark tawiness and seemed flat as a plate and endless beneath the vaulting sky, but that was a deception born of great distance. There was space enough to put a madd in Ives for hurrying, and he used the whip until this urge wore of and an old patience had its way with him again. He drove with a bleak

And then, suddenly, he was afraid.

A man should be able to put a teacher—what had been her name? —and that ancient, crazy jingle, "As I was going to St. Ives, I met a man with seven wives..." His starchy voice. "Do you know where St. Ives is, children?" Blank, bored looks; eyes with a longing for the door. "Brian, your name is Ives. Probably once, long ago, the name was St. Ives, but the first part of it was dropped. What sort of name is Ives, Brian?"

A self-conscious flaming through him from suddenly being the focus of attention. His childish voice quavering in his ears. "I—I don't know..."

"You don't know anything about your own name?" A patronizing smile. "Come now, Brian!"

And then, later, a boy daring the invincibility of that gray ghost of a man, Colonel Carradine. "I'd like to know, sir, who my people were."

The gray ghost coming to a sudden stiffness, a white scar on a man's forehead flaring red. "Don't ever ask me that! Don't ever ask me that again!"

And here were the old years laid bare today...

He used the buggy whip again, lifting the horse to a run, and he kept at this pace until he saw the straying saddler. A ranger horse is trained to stand when the reins are dropped to the ground, but this horse—a buckskin gelding—was dragging its reins and grazing along; and Ives stopped the buggy and considered this phenomenon. The road had swung near the Sombra; over where the willows fringed the stream, there was a gey splashing; and Ives smiled, understanding. Some cowboy was easing the heat of the day by having himself a swim, and his horse had strayed meanwhile. Thinking this, Ives pulled the buggy to the side of the road and dropped the iron weight with its leather strap and climbed down from the vehicle.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The 50 United Nations completed a world charter today to make the organization permanent after the war.

Pickaway County schools had an average daily attendance of 3,106 boys and girls last year.

Forrest Short, Pickaway County auditor, has shipped 10 heavy draft horses to Maine. The animals weighed from between 1,800 to 2,100 pounds each.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tom Renick and Ray Davis left yesterday to attend the national Republican convention in Philadelphia.

Circleville's population has swelled a total of 640 since 1939, according to the 1949 census report.

Mrs. Don Claud of Ashville visited today with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hawkes, East Franklin street.

TWENTY - FIVE YEARS AGO

Stout and Stout of Stoutsville were lowest bidders on a $133,490.30 bridge contract in Miami County.

Ohio and West Virginia were linked together as one prohibition district today with headquarters in Columbus.

Hazel Greeno went to Columbus today to visit Mrs. Jack Bradley of New York City.

Try, Stop Me

Irvin Hoffman knows a New York manufacturer who's working so hard, he can only turn on his television set from 5 to 6 in the evenings, when scratchy old Western films usually dominate the screen. Recently a dinner companion asked him what he thought about the cold war with Russia. "I don't know much about that," admitted the manufacturer, "but I do know it's high time our government did something out west about those pesky Indians!"

You want to scratch at the window panes, rap on the doors of the city, call through the halls in search of life. But the glass is up between you and the city: its life ticks on and its words are spoken and its endless movements are made, and you cannot hear what they say.

You want to hear words spoken; you want to hear somebody say something, for quiet and silence in the night are not familiar to you. You feel your nerves edgy and uncertain, but you look around as you walk in the spring night and there are only people shuffling around living rooms, lighting lamps, reading papers, snoring on studio couches.

"Tell them I came and no one answered,

That I kept my word," he said . . .

You stop, for here is something of drama. A man and a woman are in the living room of their apartment and the shades are three-quarters up, so you can see them standing facing each other. They are cold and angry with one another; when you look in on them, they are simply standing saying nothing, but then he speaks suddenly, with violence.

What does he accuse her? Has she a lover? Is she spoiling their little daughter? She flares back at him and they make an unlovely sight, the two faces full of hatred, the mouths moving angrily but to you, saying nothing.

Then he slaps her, hard on the cheek, and you stand there uncertainly—but a thousand cheeks are being slapped in the city tonight, cheeks in which you have no interest, on which you have no claim. So you move on through the streets of the dark town.

THE SHOE AND THE FOOT

THE FOIBLES and foolishness of feminine fashions are a favorite target of masculine attack. But how many men wear shoes which are the same shape as their feet? The foot is shaped like a blunt wedge pointing to the rear, with a gently rounded front edge. The typical masculine shoe minimizes the rearward wedge and substitutes a long, slender point aimed forward. Shoe salesmen say men won't buy shoes with rounded toes, conforming to the rounded ends of their feet.

If this is not a foolish foible, what is it? Men claim that they dress to suit themselves, and yet only one in dozens is willing to deviate from custom by wearing shoes which follow the natural shape of their feet. The manufacturers certainly cannot be blamed in this case, for shoes with rounded toes, like the rounded end of the foot, are available, and a few men wear them. But so small is the demand for them that such designs are confined almost exclusively to heavy shoes made for and worn by men who do much walking. A dress shoe with a rounded toe is almost unheard of. Men have somehow got the notion that such a shoe makes the foot look shorter, wider, and therefore uglier, and that it is much better to have a foot which looks slender and long.

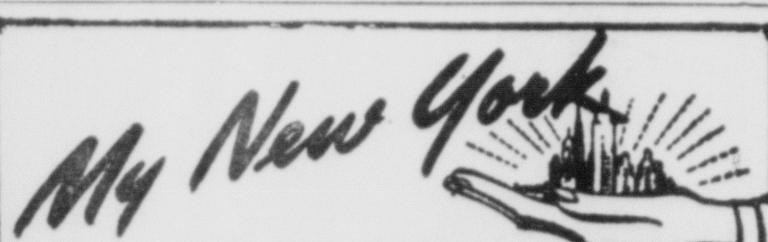

Men are seldom heard to complain publicly that their feet hurt. And they are frequently heard to boast that they buy shoes to fit their feet. The boast is seldom founded on fact. Mostly, they join the ladies.

"WE MUST BE GOING"

THE MAN who does not understand the social customs of his wife's friends is annoyed. He says that women callers, after spending an hour or two, murmur, "Well, I must be going." They have no intention of going. They make no move in that direction for another hour or two. Why do they say it?

Perhaps a social tradition has grown up that it is improper to leave without announcing the intention an hour or two in advance. Or perhaps a silence arises, and the guest cannot think of anything else to say. A hint of leaving breaks the silence, and puts it up to the hostess to offer better entertainment.

However it be interpreted, "We must be going" is a meaningless phrase. That may account for its unpopularity with men, who are apt to be innocent enough to take social small talk literally.

*"Is there anybody there?" said the Traveler,
Knocking on the moonlit door . . ."*

NEW YORK—You are alone in the city, a world you never made, and it is like a silent movie. In the street around you, people walk and talk and go through all the little mechanisms of living, but they are too close to you—the forest for the trees—and you do not see what they do nor hear what they say.

It is into the stores and the homes that you look in your hunt for signs of life, into the thousand buildings of the city, behind the curtains, through the Venetian blinds, and you discover that it is a mute world, a world behind glass and curtain. A world without subtleties.

There—there in that second-floor apartment, where you see the warm light of an amber floor lamp. You stand on the sidewalk for a moment looking up, and you see the little group of fat and middle-aged men and women standing for a moment

Sunday evening. It could be bridge, but you see that the men have their jackets off and are in shirt sleeves and suspenders, so it probably is pinochle or even whist.

These are too old for the sharp and greedy chase of the poker table. They settle into their chairs and then sit there like figures in a tableau, as the game begins. You cannot see their hands arranging and playing the cards, so all you see that moves are the mouths. But there is no sound. You are a deaf man in the city tonight.

But no one descended to the Traveler;

No head from the leaf-fringed sill . . .

You pass on through the streets. There is a basement apartment, down three steps, and you can look into the living room, for the shades are only half drawn. There is a bookcase and a chair and you see feet padding around in slippers. But the feet make no sound, nor is there any noise from the radio, old and small and brown, with the little orange glow between the dials to let you know the electricity is on.

You move along, and a few apartment buildings down the street there are darkened, opened windows on a first floor, a shade curtain swaying in the spring breeze. The edge of a crib can be seen through a window. The sleep of the innocent is being slept there; there will be no sound from within.

For a moment you forget that you are sound of wind and limb, that there are friends somewhere in the night, that there is a part of all this to which you belong. You are suddenly alone in the city, and it makes no comforting, reassuring noises for you. You know that to be deaf is different from this, but in the face of the knowledge, you tell yourself that this is how it must be.

You want to scratch at the window panes, rap on the doors of the city, call through the halls in search of life. But the glass is up between you and the city; its life ticks on and its words are spoken and its endless movements are made, and you cannot hear.

*But only a host of phantom listeners
That dwelt in the lone house then . . .*

You can see the river in the distance and a tanker passing slowly down it to the sea, but only her running lights are on; there are no melancholy hoots to reach your ears. Across the river, the automobiles pass along the highways, little blobs of light that disappear behind buildings and then pop out again and continue on, like grounded fireflies.

You want to hear words spoken; you want to hear somebody say something, for quiet and silence in the night are not familiar to you. You feel your nerves edgy and uncertain, but you look around as you walk in the spring night and there are only people shuffling around living rooms, lighting lamps, reading papers, snoring on studio couches.

*"Tell them I came and no one answered,
That I kept my word," he said . . .*

*And how the silence surged softly backward,
When the plunging hoofs were gone.*

Then, as suddenly as it came, the mood goes, and you no longer are alone in the city. You belong. There is a light in a window somewhere for you, and a home. Suddenly the noises in the streets come to you, as if your ears had popped open, and the city begins for you again its shrill, insistent clamor. But for a little while it has been a silent movie, with no subtitles to bring you closer to it, to make you feel a part.

These Days

Curious questions arise in the Amerasia case which goes back to 1945. For instance, why did they rush so to get rid of the first grand jury which went into the case? Who is the "they" in the above sentence? Where are the minutes of that grand jury? So far as anybody is willing to say, those minutes are not available. Are they lost or have they been stolen? It would be interesting to know.

This grows increasingly clear as the evidence unfolds: President Truman authorized the arrests to be made and urged prosecution. Who then countermanded the President's order?

Last week, I wrote that Judge James P. McGranery, who was at the time the top man under the attorney general, felt that J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI had fumbled the ball. I am now convinced that I had misread the data, and that is not surprising because the way it comes up bit by bit, instead as part of a scientific study, it is possible to make a slip occasionally, no matter how careful one tries to be. But I am always ready to correct an error.

The record will show that McGranery, to whom this case came only as a matter of policy in 1945, felt that the OSS had not been sufficiently careful but that the FBI had avoided pitfalls. He authorized prosecution of all persons involved in the case.

Therefore, we must ask who cancelled out McGranery and President Truman? Who had the authority to cancel them out? So far as McGranery was concerned, at first Francis Biddle, and subsequently Tom Clark, could countermand his instructions. Did one of them?

So far as President Truman is concerned, no one had authority to countermand his instructions. Yet it was done. Who did it?

There were six persons:

Philip Jaffe pleaded guilty in a quiet, almost secret, Saturday morning session of Judge Proctor's court at which the case was not really tried. United States Attorney R. M. Hitchcock proposed a $5,000 fine; Jaffe's lawyer suggested a fine of $2,500. That was the exact amount that Judge Proctor fined Jaffe.

In Lieut. Andrew Roth's case, the government entered a nolle prosequi. That let him out. The Navy never court-martialed him.

In the case of Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen, the Department of Justice suggested a fine of $500, which was imposed by the court, after a plea of nolo contendere was accepted by the court.

The cases against Kate Mitchell, Mark Gaynor and John S. Service were dropped altogether.

In a discussion of this case on the floor of the House of Representatives, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Dondero. How did those documents get out of the files of the government and be found 257 miles away from Washington?

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Brian Ives returns to Tamerlane, frontier town of the Old West. Colonel Carradine once had befriended, helped and encouraged Ives to get out on his own. giant Cory Lund, old Marco Stoll, an old acquaintance, intervenes. Warfare seems on the range, Stoll and Ives are engaged in the conflict, Stoll's family resistance to progress, to the "nestor" farmers' invasion of the land, of the Colonels' beautiful unhappy daughter, Tana.

Yet there was nothing from those years worth the cherishing; he'd buried them under a layer of other years, and until Tana's letter had come he'd been satisfied to leave them buried. Now the old years burst through again like land tossed up by an earthquake.

Looking Ahead With Charles Weidinger

Are you worried about living too long—or not long enough? Many people are worried about one or the other. Some even about both.

Yes—the fear of outliving life savings after advancing age has crept into retirement is common to many elderly people. And the fear of what will happen to wife and family should death occur before sufficient money has been saved, gravely concerns many thoughtful young men.

Both of these fears can be removed forever by carefully planned life assurance. Planned life assurance brings peace-of-mind in youth and old age. It is a blessing throughout life, a blessing that cannot afford to be without.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

As I've mentioned before, whenever I come down with a case of brain-blank I smash the crystal on a cheap wrist watch and mosey down to see an old watchmaker on West 11th Street. While he's tinkering with the timepiece, I gab with him about this and that, and by the time I leave my watch has a new crystal and I generally have the material for a column.

The other afternoon I noticed an unusual looking clock on his repair bench—one with symbols on the dial instead of numerals.

"It's a Bavarian miracle clock," said the watchmaker, "and each symbol stands for a different miracle. For instance, the little fish represents the miracle of the loaves and fishes."

"Do you believe in that sort of thing?" I asked.

"Whether you think so or not," smiled the old man, "miracles happen all the time. For instance, take the fire in Canada a couple of months ago—the one that wiped out almost the entire town but didn't touch the church."

"It could have been air currents," I said.

"Maybe," said the watchmaker, "but how would you explain away the cross in the sky that two thousand Englishmen swore they saw during an air raid in 1944? Or how would you rationalize the white horsemen who are credited with winning two battles in the first world war?"

"Take your time with the watch and details," I said.

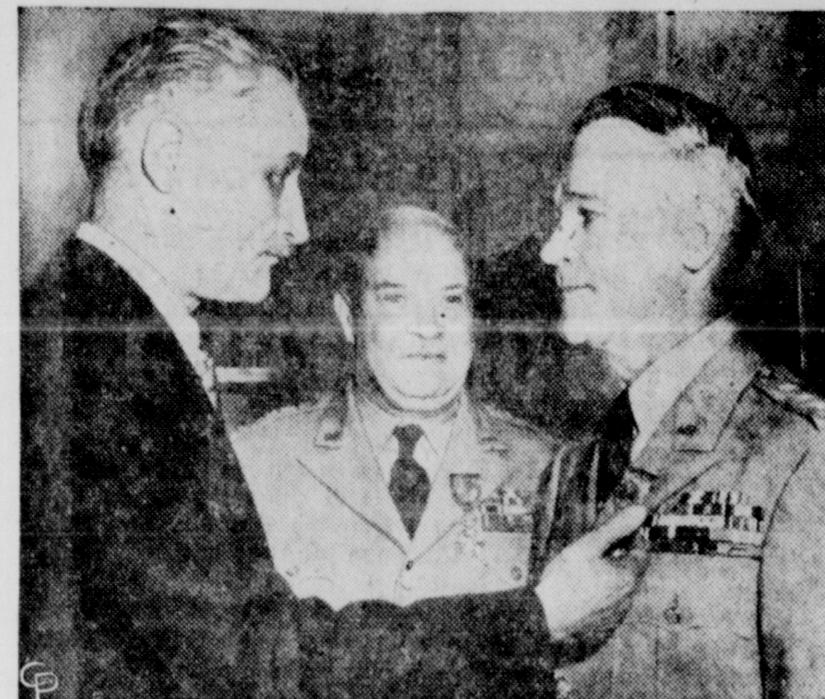

"WELL," SAID the old gent, "the first time the horsemen appeared was in August, 1914, when the Germans were advancing through a big hole in the Allied line at Mons. One night when it looked as if there was no stopping them the sky suddenly turned yellow and across it—heading straight for the Jerries—rode three white figures mounted on white horses, the center rider waving a gold-tipped sword. The enemy took one look, and that was the end of the advance."

"Sounds like somebody was seeing things," I said.

"Thousands of people were seeing things—and they ranged from privates to generals. And later that night when several hundred of the Germans were captured, to a man they reported having seen the figures, too."

"The white horsemen didn't show up again until four years later," the watchmaker went on, "and this time they brought along a lot of their friends. It was during the last German push along the Beethune line, and when a Portuguese regiment cracked up under the artillery fire a handful of British machinegunners were rushed in to plug up the hole.

"The gunners knew they didn't have a chance of getting out alive—all they could hope for

Yankey Given Chance To Be Heard Again

COLUMBUS, June 23—The Ohio supreme court has granted a stay of execution until Sept. 12 to twice-convicted murderer Celia Yankey to permit an at-it," said the watchmaker. "Captain Haywood made careful inquiry among his men but he couldn't find a single British soldier who had seen anything in the empty space to the right—except space."

"The artillery was immediately ordered to bombard the horsemen, but when the men in white continued charging across the open field despite the curtain of shells, the Germans got panicky and fled."

"How about the English gunners?" I said.

"That's the strangest part of

tempt to appeal his conviction to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Yankey, found guilty of the robbery slaying of his landlord, 72-year-old age pensioner Leroy Woodland of Greenfield, was scheduled to die tonight.

Yankey's attorney said the Supreme Court appeal would be based on "multiple constitutional questions, including the double jeopardy question, the denial of due process, the denial of right to confer with counsel of his choosing, the denial of a right to a fair trial and the denial of the right to be tried by a fair and impartial jury properly impaneled according to law."

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

As I've mentioned before, whenever I come down with a case of brain-blank I smash the crystal on a cheap wrist watch and mosey down to see an old watchmaker on West 11th Street. While he's tinkering with the timepiece, I gab with him about this and that, and by the time I leave my watch has a new crystal and I generally have the material for a column.

The other afternoon I noticed an unusual looking clock on his repair bench—one with symbols on the dial instead of numerals.

"It's a Bavarian miracle clock," said the watchmaker, "and each symbol stands for a different miracle. For instance, the little fish represents the miracle of the loaves and fishes."

"Do you believe in that sort of thing?" I asked.

"Whether you think so or not," smiled the old man, "miracles happen all the time. For instance, take the fire in Canada a couple of months ago—the one that wiped out almost the entire town but didn't touch the church."

"It could have been air currents," I said.

"Maybe," said the watchmaker, "but how would you explain away the cross in the sky that two thousand Englishmen swore they saw during an air raid in 1947? Or how would you rationalize the white horsemen who are credited with winning two battles in the first world war?"

"Take your time with the watch and details," I said.

"WELL," SAID the old gent, "the first time the horsemen appeared was in August, 1914, when the Germans were advancing through a big hole in the Allied line at Mons. One night when it looked as if there was no stopping them the sky suddenly turned yellow and across it—heading straight for the Jerries—rode three white figures mounted on white horses, the center rider waving a gold-tipped sword. The enemy took one look, and that was the end of the advance."

"Sounds like somebody was seeing things," I said.

"Thousands of people were seeing things—and they ranged from privates to generals. And later that night when several hundred of the Germans were captured, to a man they reported having seen the figures, too."

"The white horsemen didn't show up again until four years later," the watchmaker went on, "and this time they brought along a lot of their friends. It was during the last German push along the Beethune line, and when a Portuguese regiment cracked up under the artillery fire a handful of British machinegunners were rushed in to plug up the hole."

"The gunners knew they didn't have a chance of getting out alive—all they could hope for

was to keep the enemy busy until reinforcements arrived.

"Then came the miracle. Suddenly the German guns switched their range and direction, and began blasting a patch of ground several hundred yards to the right of the machinegunners—an area that was completely deserted. And then half an hour later, for no discernible reason, the Germans turned tail and began to run."

"At first, the British couldn't believe their eyes; then they figured it was some sort of trick—although under the circumstances it didn't make military sense to bother with a trick. Finally the English sent out a reconnaissance squad, and it brought back fifty prisoners from various parts of the line."

"Each prisoner was examined separately and, according to Captain C. W. Haywood of British Intelligence, each one told exactly the same story."

"WHEN THE Portuguese regiment retreated, the Germans began to chase after it and only stopped when they saw a detachment of cavalry riding forward from the Allied line to outflank them. This confused them because, for one thing, cavalry had long been obsolete on the Western Front and, for another, every member of the detachment was dressed in white and riding a white horse."

"The artillery was immediately ordered to bombard the horsemen, but when the men in white continued charging across the open field despite the curtain of shells, the Germans got panicky and fled."

"How about the English gunners?" I said.

"That's the strangest part of

Yankey Given Chance To Be Heard Again

COLUMBUS, June 23—The Ohio supreme court has granted a stay of execution until Sept. 12 to twice-convicted murderer Cefian Yankey to permit an appeal.

"WHEN THE Portugese regiment retreated, the Germans began to chase after it and only stopped when they saw a detachment of cavalry riding forward from the Allied line to outflank them. This confused them because, for one thing, cavalry had long been obsolete on the Western Front and, for another, every member of the detachment was dressed in white and riding a white horse."

tempt to appeal his conviction to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Yankey, found guilty of the robbery slaying of his landlord, 72-year-old age pensioner Leroy Woodland of Greenfield, was sentenced to die tonight.

Yankey's attorney said the Supreme Court appeal would be based on "multiple constitutional questions, including the double jeopardy question, the denial of due process, the denial of right to confer with counsel of his choosing, the denial of a right to a fair trial and the denial of the right to be tried by a fair and impartial jury properly impaneled according to law."

HUNGERED FOR FREEDOM*DPs Loud In Their Praise
For Assistance By CROP

COLUMBUS, June 23—Talented European refugees, now American citizens in Ohio, created high interest at the statewide gathering of CROP workers at a refugee luncheon held here this week. Delegations from thirty counties attended.

Paeans of praise for America "and all its fine people," spoken by refugees, found answer in the thanksgiving of Ohio farmers and clergymen that they live in a land of plenty and are possessed of a God-given abundance which they are privileged to share with their hungry brothers overseas.

Frank Farnsworth, former Ohio director of agriculture and chairman of the Ohio CROP Committee, setting the tone for the expressions of praise and thanksgiving, announced that the combined Catholic, Protestant and Lutheran churches of Ohio, organized for the Christian Rural Overseas Program, looked to Ohio farmers this year for 80 carloads of grain and milk to come from 18 wheat counties now being organized, 15 soybean and 12 milk counties to be organized, and 20 corn counties slated for organization this Fall.

Mrs. August Pikkja, children's librarian at Dover and a refugee from Estonia, shared chief interest with Mr. and Mrs. Hendryk Jakubowski, of Darke County, refugees from Poland. Mrs. Jakubowski is a concert pianist and Jakubowski a concert cellist, and a professional motion picture producer.

"OH, LORD, GIVE me a thousand tongues!" Mrs. Pikkja said, "to sing the praise of all the fine people in America. Ten years ago I lost my home and there is no way back. We hungered for freedom as we did for bread. We were kept hungry to keep us subservient. That is why we are here."

"There is only one country in the world where freedom has the right meaning, and that is right here. I cannot say how much I appreciate and give thanks for the American ability to understand. My Bible and my necklace are all I have from home. That book saved my life. I believe in the One who takes care of you."

Mrs. Pikkja said that the cans in which refugees were served soup were called Truman dishes."

The Rev. N. B. Wierwill, pastor of Archbold, just back from visiting a congregation in Frankfort, Germany, which his congregation adopted, told of viewing relief work. "Two thirds of the world goes to bed hungry," he said, "I saw some of those people."

"Europe indeed is getting much better, but the DPs are not getting on better. If we don't go to their help who else will?" a "Give us this day our daily bread" must have a better meaning for us, with the emphasis on 'us'. This is God's world

A spokesman for the group of 50 fighting parents said yesterday that two members of a Pasadena, Calif., parents' committee have met with the executive committee of the newly formed Educational Improvement Association of Upper Arlington.

The spokesman said Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Schwartz of Pasadena reported "the school children of Pasadena are being schooled in attitudes and relationships at the expense of teaching basic fundamentals."

HUNGERED FOR FREEDOM'*DPs Loud In Their Praise
For Assistance By CROP

COLUMBUS, June 23—Talented European refugees, now American citizens in Ohio, created high interest at the statewide gathering of CROP workers at a refugee luncheon held here this week. Delegations from thirty counties attended.

Paeans of praise for America "and all its fine people," spoken by refugees, found answer in the thanksgiving of Ohio farmers and clergymen that they live in a land of plenty and are possessed of a God-given abundance which they are privileged to share with their hungry brothers overseas.

Frank Farnsworth, former Ohio director of agriculture and chairman of the Ohio CROP Committee, setting the tone for the expressions of praise and thanksgiving, announced that the combined Catholic, Protestant and Lutheran churches of Ohio, organized for the Christian Rural Overseas Program, looked to Ohio farmers this year for 80 carloads of grain and milk to come from 18 wheat counties now being organized, 15 soybean and 12 milk counties to be organized, and 20 corn counties slated for organization this fall.

Mrs. August Pikkola, children's librarian at Dover and a refugee from Estonia, shared chief interest with Mr. and Mrs. Hendryk Jakubowski, of Darke County, refugees from Poland. Mrs. Jakubowski is a concert pianist and Jakubowski a concert cellist, and a professional motion picture producer.

"OH, LORD, GIVE me a thousand tongues," Mrs. Pikkola said, "to sing the praise of all the fine people in America. Ten years ago I lost my home and there is no way back. We hungered for freedom as we did for bread. We were kept hungry to keep us subservient. That is why we are here."

"There is only one country in the world where freedom has the right meaning, and that is right here. I cannot say how much I appreciate and give thanks for the American ability to understand. My Bible and my necklace are all I have from home. That book saved my life. I believe in the One who takes care of you."

Mrs. Pikkola said that tin cans in which refugees were served soup were called Truman dishes."

The Rev. N. B. Wierwill, pastor of Archbold, just back from visiting a congregation in Frankfort, Germany, which his congregation adopted, told of viewing relief work. "Two thirds of the world goes to bed hungry," he said, "I saw some of those people."

"Europe indeed is getting much better, but the DPs are not getting on better. If we don't go to their help who else will?" a "Give us this day our daily bread," must have a better meaning for us, with the emphasis on us". This is God's world

Red Cross Crew Proves Alert

CLEVELAND June 23—Some 400 disaster rescue workers were sent to suburban Mayfield Heights last night when Mayor Harry Jones reported an "explosion" and "fires" near the town hall.

Actually there was no explosion or fire since it was just a simulated disaster to test the Red Cross' ability to get to a devastated area and look after the injured and homeless.

The first Red Cross truck rolled into a vacant lot behind the town hall within 18 minutes after Jones' call for help.

Arlington Group Gets Assist In Education Fight

COLUMBUS, June 23—Parents of fashionable Upper Arlington are not alone in the attack on progressive education which they launched June 13.

A spokesman for the group of 70 fighting parents said yesterday that two members of a Pasadena, Calif., parents' committee have met with the executive committee of the newly formed Educational Improvement Association of Upper Arlington.

The spokesman said Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Schwartz of Pasadena reported "the school children of Pasadena are being schooled in attitudes and relationships at the expense of teaching basic fundamentals."

The Arlington spokesman said the Schwartzes found:

"Many of the problems of the Arlington schools and those of Pasadena are identical. Our children are being taught to think, but are not being given the tools with which to think."

Navy Signs Up Amanda Youth

John W. Spriggs son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Spriggs of near Amanda was sworn into the U.S. Navy in Columbus. John will be sent to the naval training center Great Lakes Ill. for his recruit training.

Jansen, Koslo Prove Poison

NEW YORK, June 23—Pitching, the commodity that has eluded the New York Giants since the mid '30s, suddenly thrust itself upon the Durochers today and changed the whole National League picture.

Lean Larry Jansen, a lantern-jawed righthander, and stocky Dave Koslo, the southpaw who was the league's most effective hurler last year, combine to give a performance yesterday reminiscent of the heyday of Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher and Freddy Fitzsimmons.

Jansen and Koslo hurl 3 to 0 and 5 to 0 shutout wins over the vaunted St. Louis Cardinals and unceremoniously dumped the Redbirds into third place.

The effort turned in by the 29-year-old Jansen was really the big thing. Larry recorded his third straight blank job, stretching his scoreless pitching streak to 29 consecutive innings, his game winning streak to five straight and his season total to seven.

The Forest Grove, Ore., father of six children allowed the Cardinals hit for each of his kids that was all.

Tootie Gilbert's two-run homer and Alvin Dark's solo blast off Howie Pollet gave Jansen three runs. He needed only one.

Then came the second game and Koslo was even more stubborn. He allowed the Redbirds but two hits. Henry Thompson singled home the first run off Alpha Brazel in the fourth. That was all Koslo needed.

Action, Protest Spark Softball Twin Bill Here

Circleville Night Softball League followers were given a twin thrill Thursday in Ted Lewis Park.

Boyers softball team provided the show, winning a rough exhibition tilt to open the evening and following up by winning the first round league championship in the nightcap.

Boyers won the first round league game with an 8-0 shutout win over Circleville Oil softballers, while earlier defeating Tabernacle Baptists of Chillicothe by an 8-3 count.

The first game, in parts, was a roushous affair at home plate with two of the Baptists placed on the injury list.

One of the Chillicothe players, 17-year-old David Carries, suffered a mild concussion when he received a bump on the head while sliding into home. He was treated in Berger hospital and released Friday.

Another Chillicothe player, the catcher, was run over by Boyers Outfielder Dick Hartinger when the catcher attempted to nab the runner.

AFTER THE first contest, Boyers and Circleville Oil launched the championship tilt.

The Oilers filed a protest in the seventh inning, citing that a non-league umpires were used. Regular league umpires are licensed officials from Lancaster.

Friday's softball card in the park calls for Top Hat to meet Lancaster R.B.M.'s in a twin bill beginning at 8 p.m. The Hatters will play another doubleheader here Saturday against Lancaster Gassers.

Boyers will meet the same Chillicothe Baptists Saturday in an exhibition match in Chillicothe.

Zaharias, Berg Face Challenge

DENVER, June 23—Two top-ranking women professionals and two Ohio amateurs were the semi-finalists here today in the 1950 Women's Western Open golf tournament at Cherry Hills Country Club.

Babe Zaharias of Chicago and Patty Berg of Minneapolis who have won the Western Open three times each, were matched to decide who will uphold the pro ranks in tomorrow's finals.

From Ohio, Peggy Doran of Findlay and Claire Doran of Cleveland faced each other. Miss Kirk upset Betty Jameson of San Antonio yesterday while Miss Doran eliminated Mrs. Lyle Bowman of Portland, Ore.

Musial Leading All-Star Poll

CHICAGO, June 23—Stan Musial is still the favorite of the nation's baseball fans in the 20-day All-Star poll which reaches the halfway mark today.

The St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman-outfielder has 169,966 votes, highest individual total in the balloting to name starting lineups for the 17th annual interleague game in Chicago July 11.

He is 3,454 votes ahead of George Kell, Detroit third baseman, who has collected 166,512. Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder, is third with 164,852, and the Brooklyn Dodgers' Jackie Robinson is fourth with 163,943.

Gotham Takes Chicago Bet

NEW YORK, June 23—Mayor William O'Dwyer has accepted in behalf of the New York City council a challenge of its Chicago counterpart for a softball game for charity.

The New York mayor coupled his acceptance with a warning in his message to Mayor Martin H. Kennelly of Chicago.

Said O'Dwyer, "some of our councilmen come from Brooklyn."

National Caddie Meet Booked

COLUMBUS, June 23—The national caddie tournament will have a new monicker when it is played here Aug. 20-26.

The Professional Golfers Association of America endorsed the tourney for caddies between the ages of 12 and 17 yesterday, dubbing it the PGA National Caddie Tournament.

cago White Sox. Scarborough, who regularly had Boston's number when he was with Washington, allowed them four hits. Eddie Robinson's three-run homer sewed up the righthander's seventh win of the season.

The Philadelphia Athletics blasted out a 15-9, 8 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Browns in a night game. Sherm Lollar hit a two-run homer for the Browns and Sam Chapman duplicated the feat for the Athletics. Bobby Shantz was the winner for Philadelphia.

Action, Protest Spark Softball Twin Bill Here

Circleville Night Softball League followers were given a twin thrill Thursday in Ted Lewis Park.

Boyers softball team provided the show, winning a rough exhibition tilt to open the evening and following up by winning the first round league championship in the nightcap.

Boyers won the first round league toga with an 8-2 shutout win over Circleville Oil softballers, while earlier defeating Tabernacle Baptists of Chillicothe by an 8-3 count.

The first game, in parts, was a rousing affair at home plate with two of the Baptists placed on the injury list.

One of the Chillicothe players, 17-year-old David Carres, suffered a mild concussion when he received a bump on the head while sliding into home. He was treated in Berger hospital and released Friday.

Another Chillicothe player, the catcher, was run over by Boyer Outfielder Dick Hartinger when the catcher attempted to nab the runner.

AFTER THE first contest, Boyers and Circleville Oil launched the championship tilt.

The Oilers filed a protest in the seventh inning, citing that a non-league umpires were used. Regular league umpires are licensed officials from Lancaster.

Friday's softball card in the park calls for Top Hat to meet Lancaster RBM's in a twin bill beginning at 8 p.m. The Hatters will play another doubleheader here Saturday against Lancaster Gassers.

Boyers will meet the same Chillicothe Baptists Saturday in an exhibition match in Chillicothe.

THE GIANTS added four more in the eighth on five hits and double steal, the same Mr. Thompson copping the home dish.

Added reason for the double Giant win:

Stan Musial went zero for seven official trips.

The sixth loss in seven games for the Cardinals provided Brooklyn and Philadelphia with an opportunity to advance.

Oddly enough, the Dodgers lost but managed to go into a half game lead in first place. Philadelphia won and moved into second place, percentage points ahead of the Redbirds.

Two three-run homers by the Cincinnati Reds beat the Dodgers, 9 to 5. Ted Kluszewski and Bob Scheffing tagged the two blow. The Brooks bowed despite two run homers by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges.

The homer was an important blow in Philadelphia's scheme of things, too. Four such blows and a triple play helped Phillie Rookie Bob Miller gain his sixth win without a defeat as he turned down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 4.

Willie Jones, Del Ennis, Bill Nicholson and Andy Seminick split the four-baggers. Ralph Kiner got his 15th for the losers.

The triple play occurred in the seventh inning with Cramer Beard on third and Hank Schenz on first for the Pirates. Gus Bell hit to Pitcher Miller who threw to Grany Hamner for the force at second. The relay to first got Bell in a double play and then Eddie Waitkus threw home to get the over-sliding Beard for the triple play.

American League favorites were pasted again.

The Detroit Tigers lost their third in a row to the Washington Senators, 5 to 2, as Bob Kuzava limited the Bengals to five hits.

Detroit remained a game ahead of the rest of the American League pack as the Yankees obliged by losing to the Cleveland Indians for the second straight day.

FIVE INDIAN homers paced Bob Feller to his 199th major league victory as he stopped the Bronx Bombers, 6 to 2. Luke Easter and Jim Hegan collected a pair of round-trippers and Ray Boone got one, all off Joe Estes, the ex-Brownie, in his first start for the Yanks.

Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize accounted for the two New York runs with homers.

Boston's Red Sox lost their 11th in their last 13 starts and a reportedly ill Joe McCarthy left his team to go home to rest on doctors orders.

The Red Sox were taken 4 to 2 by Ray Scarborough and the Chi-

Male Needlecraft Given Spot In Pickaway County's Fair

Pickaway County men now have an excuse to relax and teach the little woman a few things about fancy needlework.

A new feature of the 1950 Pickaway County Fair will be a crocheting department under the homemaking department.

And the crocheting department is open with special categories for men, women and children.

Pickaway County Agricultural Society officials said the new department will be held in connection with the National Crocheting Championship to be held late this Fall.

Sponsored by the National Needlecraft Club, the local participation will be divided into 12 categories and four special classifications.

Special categories have been set up for men only, 4-H Club girls, teen-age girls and women older than 65.

CLASSIFICATIONS listed for the department are tablecloths

Vegetarians Rap Cleric's Planned Yankee Barbecue

LONDON, June 23—British vegetarians were up in arms over a Texas-style barbecue to be held today in the wide open spaces of London.

In letters to London newspapers, the non-beef eaters lashed at the strictly American custom of barbecuing as "disgusting," "a dangerous orgy," and "sadism."

The protests were leveled against a barbecue planned by the Rev. John Nickels to raise money for his church in Kensington, badly hit in the wartime blitz.

Three pigs, killed and prepared in Texas, have been flown to London for the occasion. London caterers have prepared salads, soft drinks, and chewing gum for the party to which Nickels has sold more than 1,000 tickets.

The American Airforce in Britain will provide the cooks for the blow-out, while GIs in cowboy uniforms have been recruited by the clergyman to play guitars—just as they do under America's western skies.

Rev. Mr. Nickels explained that he got the idea for the barbecue during World War II when he visited the United States as a British navy chaplain. He said he had never seen that "kind of dining before." It intrigued him.

Local Student Joins Societies

Walter C. Leist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leist of West Main street, joined two honorary societies during the Spring term in Ohio State university. He now is a member of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, and Pi Mu Epsilon, national honorary mathematics fraternity.

Leist is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman honorary fraternity, and a member of Society of Mechanical Engineers. He is now finishing the fourth year of a five-year program to earn a master of science degree.

7 Jap Army Stragglers Said Living In Trees

MANILA, June 23—Seven Japanese army stragglers were reported officially today to have been found living happily in tree houses on mountainous Mindoro Island in the West Central Philippines.

All seven were said to have married Filipino tribeswomen in 1945 in order to escape surrender when Japan capitulated to the Allies.

The Philippine Army Intelligence Service reported the Japanese stragglers are divided into two groups presumably leading peaceful lives in two separate parts of the remote mountains in the wild interior of Mindoro.

Brig. Gen. Calixto Duque, Philippine army assistant chief of staff, discounted rumors that the former Japanese soldiers had captured American servicemen and were holding them as hostages.

The Japanese, according to the Philippine intelligence service, were befriended by the Mangyan mountain tribe in the Mindoro interior where nomadic-type natives dwell in shelters constructed among tree branches.

These primitive tribesmen get their food by killing wild animals with bows and arrows and with spears.

Found Lying Barking Dog

CLEVELAND, June 23—Officials in Gates Mills are still baffled today by the lying dog who barked—or the barking dog who lied.

For three days he told neighbors he was strapped on a small ledge of a shale bank high above the Chagrin river. At least that's what they concluded from his incessant barking.

But when the Animal Protective League arrived on the scene with a long ladder yesterday to rescue the helpless hound he sprang over their heads, jumped into the river and swam to the opposite bank of the river.

$500 prize is offered to the national winner.

In addition, the regular prize money will be awarded by the fair board for the winners of each of the categories.

Judges for the crocheting department will be selected by Mrs. Beryl Stevenson and Genevieve Alley.

Fair board officials also said there has been a complete change in the method of electing directors of the agricultural society.

In previous years, ballots were mailed to all members of the society early in December and after they had been returned, the election committee counted them.

Now, members of the society will cast their ballots in the secretary's office any day during the fair, between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m.

The board of directors feels that this will result in a larger vote and a more personal feeling on the part of the member when casting his ballot.

Family and membership tickets for the 1950 Fair are now being sold.

AS THE RESULT of the experience of last year, one ticket combines both membership in the agricultural society and the privilege of bringing the family to all sessions of the fair without further payments.

By family, as designated on the tickets, a man and his wife and all children under 12 years of age can enter the gates as many times as they wish. The ticket also entitles the holder to free parking.

The ticket is also a membership card entitling the holder to vote for all directors of the society and to attend all meetings of the membership of the society. Family tickets last year were so popular that the Board decided to combine the two.

The price of the combined ticket is $2.50. All 4-H Club members in the county will be selling them.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 23—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Jane Cowl, "the first lady on the stage."

The 65-year-old actress, who gained fame as the nation's foremost "Juliet," died yesterday at a Santa Monica hospital following a lengthy illness. Her physicians said death was due to cancer.

Miss Cowl staged a Broadway "marathon" when she portrayed Juliet for 865 nights and matinees. The extended run began Jan. 24, 1943.

Male Needlecrafter Given Spot In Pickaway County's Fair

Pickaway County men now have an excuse to relax and teach the little woman a few things about fancy needlework.

A new feature of the 1950 Pickaway County Fair will be a crocheting department under the homemaking department.

And the crocheting department is open with special categories for men, women and children.

Pickaway County Agricultural Society officials said the new department will be held in connection with the National Crocheting Championship to be held late this Fall.

Sponsored by the National Needlecrafter Club, the local participation will be divided into 12 categories and four special classifications.

Special categories have been set up for men only, 4-H Club girls, teen-age girls and women older than 65.

CLASSIFICATIONS listed for the department are tablecloths

Vegetarians Rap Cleric's Planned Yankee Barbecue

LONDON, June 23—British vegetarians were up in arms over a Texas-style barbecue to be held today in the wide open spaces of London.

In letters to London newspapers, the non-beef eaters lashed at the strictly American custom of barbecuing as "disgusting," "a dangerous orgy," and "sadism."

The protests were leveled against a barbecue planned by the Rev. John Nickels to raise money for his church in Kensington, badly hit in the wartime blitz.

Three pigs, killed and prepared in Texas, have been flown to London for the occasion. London caterers have prepared salads, soft drinks, and chewing gum for the party to which Nickels has sold more than 1,000 tickets.

The American Airforce in Britain will provide the cooks for the blow-out, while GIs in cowboy uniforms have been recruited by the clergyman to play guitars—just as they do under America's western skies.

Rev. Mr. Nickels explained that he got the idea for the barbecue during World War II when he visited the United States as a British navy chaplain. He said he had never seen that kind of dining before." It intrigued him.

Local Student Joins Societies

Walter C. Leist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leist of West Main street, joined two honorary societies during the Spring term in Ohio State University. He now is a member of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, and Pi Mu Epsilon, national honorary mathematics fraternity.

Leist is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman honorary fraternity, and a member of Society of Mechanical Engineers. He is now finishing the fourth year of a five-year program to earn a master of science degree.

$500 prize is offered to the national winner.

In addition, the regular prize money will be awarded by the fair board for the winners of each of the categories.

Judges for the crocheting department will be selected by Mrs. Beryl Stevenson and Genevieve Alley.

Official said the grand champion of the Pickaway showing will have his or her winning piece entered into the national competition later in Chicago. A Fair board officials also said there has been a complete change in the method of electing directors of the agricultural society.

In previous years, ballots were mailed to all members of the society early in December and after they had been returned, the election committee counted them.

Now, members of the society will cast their ballots in the secretary's office any day during the fair, between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m.

The board of directors feels that this will result in a larger

All seven were said to have married Filipino tribeswomen in 1945 in order to escape surrender when Japan capitulated to the Allies.

The Philippine Army Intelligence Service reported the Japanese stragglers are divided into two groups presumably leading peaceful lives in two separate parts of the remote mountains in the wild interior of Mindoro.

Brig. Gen. Calixto Duque, Philippine army assistant chief of staff, discounted rumors that the former Japanese soldiers had captured American servicemen and were holding them as hostages.

The Japanese, according to the Philippine intelligence service, were befriended by the Mangyan mountain tribe in the Mindoro interior where nomadic-type natives dwell in shelters constructed among tree branches.

These primitive tribesmen get their food by killing wild animals with bows and arrows and with spears.

7 Jap Army Stragglers Said Living In Trees

MANILA, June 23—Seven Japanese army stragglers were reported officially today to have been found living happily in tree houses on mountainous Mindoro island in the West Central Philippines.

All seven were said to have married Filipino tribeswomen in 1945 in order to escape surrender when Japan capitulated to the Allies.

Found Lying Barking Dog

CLEVELAND, June 23—Officials in Gates Mills are still baffled today by the lying dog who barked—or the barking dog who lied.

For three days he told neighbors he was stranded on a small ledge of a shale bank high above the Chagrin river. At least that's what they concluded from his incessant barking.

But when the Animal Protective League arrived on the scene with a long ladder yesterday to rescue the helpless hound he sprang over their heads, jumped into the river and swam to the opposite bank of the river.
